

THE YEAR 2021-22

Li'l Creations and Big Curiosities...

You cannot swim for new horizons until you have courage to lose sight of the shore.

EDITORIAL

The year 2021-22 was indeed a year that challenged all our boundaries. We emerged slowly out of an online, digital mode of learning in a pandemic infested year into a hybrid mode of learning, a restoration of normalcy to some extent.

The one thing that this year gone by surely taught is the amazing grace and resilience displayed by the students at DPS East of Kailash. They battled and overcame a number of difficult and different situations, faced all odds and emerged successful. The students showed courage and conviction as they moved up the steps of success, inspired by all they had experienced through the year.

A heartfelt note of gratitude to our Headmistress, Ms. Usha Diptivilasa who has taught us to always keep our face towards the sunshine, and shadows will fall behind you...

INSPIRATION ACTS AS A CATALYST FOR SUCCESS

A heartfelt note of gratitude to our Supervisors, Ms. Manjeet Gandhi and Ms. Karuna Sharma and our esteem colleagues for their unstinted support and invaluable inputs. Most of all a humongous thanks to our students for their immense contribution to the magazine.

The current magazine is a salute and tribute to our extraordinary student body and its extraordinary achievements in the year.

Principal's Message

Rights and duties are two stars of the social sciences. Much discussed, much debated, much written about but is the relevance of these two words confined to the walls of the school only? Definitely not, the scope expands and engulfs all of us. Our rights have been the fruit of revolution. Millions fought for the rights that are now inscribed in gold. Similarly, opportunities that you receive should be seen as your own individual revolutions; so keep fighting until you accomplish what you are capable of achieving. However, like a soldier at twilight, it is natural that you will burn out but then it is your duty towards yourself to rest and heal. Just so that you rise again at dawn, like a soldier who rises to protect the motherland and her people, you also must fulfil your duty to others. What is your duty to others? To be respectful, to care, to be kind, to love, to empathise and to learn. Keep learning, keep marching ahead, sometimes fazed but never disheartened in the face of adversity. In the nooks and crannies of life, you will find your rights, your duties to yourself and your duty to society. For, it must always be service before self.

Chairman's Message

It is a matter of great pleasure to browse through the pages of this year's Dips Diary and engage in the symphony of imagination and accomplishments that the students of Delhi Public School, R.K. Puram, have presented. I commend their ever so earnest efforts and look forward to seeing them scale greater heights. Their zeal, dedication and ceaseless pursuit of perfection will surely push them to emerge victorious. It is rightly said that, "Victory is always possible for those who refuse to give up."

I wish the Principal, Staff and Students the very best in their future endeavours.

Ode to the Chairman

You are the light on the darkest day
You continue to inspire us in every way
You give us dreams and show us grace
Your vision and hard work hold us in place.

An unmatched example of success and truth
A gem of a human being, a model to the youth
With pride, the DPS family looks up to you
And humbly, we express our gratitude.

Your virtues, kindness and good traits
And the humility you demonstrate
Provide an inspiration for us to emulate
We thank you for leading us to the right fate.

An Interview with Mr. V.K. Shunglu

Chairman

The Delhi Public School Society & D.P.S. R.K. Puram Managing Committee

EB: Sir, What is the one morning ritual you religiously follow?

Chairman Sir: Morning tea! I simply love my morning tea.

EB: So what has DPS RKPuram accomplished that is most noteworthy?

Chairman Sir: It represents, in essence, the culture of the DPS family.

EB: Sir, how has your worldview changed over the years?

Chairman Sir: If I take the last 40 years, 1982 to 2020, there has been a political and economic transformation. Politically many of the societies which were autocratic have fallen by the wayside. Economically, there's been far more concentration of wealth than was there in 1980. So politically you could arguably say that the world has improved, but there are losses economically. If you say that we are looking for the greatest good of the greatest number, there has been some dilution in that recently, there is a book which has been published. You might have heard of the French author, Thomas Piketty and his recent foray - 'Brief History of Equality' where he discusses how the economic situation has worsened for the majority of the people.

EB: What is something you want to be remembered for?

Chairman Sir: I really don't wish to be remembered at all. I'm too inconsequential to be remembered.

EB: Sir, what is a legacy that you would want us to follow?

Chairman Sir: I have supported the evolving legacy of the DPS family. It is the only society which has several unique features. So if you look at the balance sheet of any other non-profit society, you would find that there are people who had subscribed to the initial constitution of the society. What is unique about the DPS Society balance sheet is that there are no such contributors. So financially there is no owner. Politically also there are no owners. So if you were to look at this society in 1970 when R. K. Puram started, not a single member at present was a member of the DPS society at that time. So it has been evolving and there is no owner, either political or economic. That is a unique feature that has led to its growth as an institution.

EB: Sir, if you could spend one day in someone else's shoes, who would it be and why?

Chairman Sir: Oh, I have a very peculiar shoe size (laughs) so I don't fit into anybody's shoes!

EB: What is the one thing that you would add to your Wikipedia page that not many people know of?

Chairman Sir: That I'm good at answering questions.

EB: Sir, on looking back, what is a life experience that shaped the person you are today?

Chairman Sir: You can't define a single moment in time when the monkey became a man, right? That's what Darwin talks about. What is the missing link? Similarly in our personal evolution, we don't know that. There's this argument that what you are today, you always were. So if Macbeth was evil, he was never good. When he went on a killing spree, some people argue he was always like that. The other side of the argument is that people change over the years: they evolve. And frankly speaking, most of the students who were in school with me and who are my age now don't recognise me. They didn't know the person I am today.

EB: Thank you so much, sir. Did you have a role model when you were younger? Who was it?

Chairman Sir: My father was my role model. He was a very learned man and he started his life by teaching English at Delhi University.

EB: So in your opinion, what role does the youth play in shaping the future of a country?

Chairman Sir: Sixteen to twenty years are the formative years for the youth. Einstein, I think, when he published the special theory of relativity, was not more than 23 or 24 years of age. Same with Isaac Newton. Such extraordinary geniuses! Youth is the foundation for the growth of such geniuses!

EB: Thank you, Sir. So what is the kindest deed someone has done for you that has left a lasting impression?

Chairman Sir: No single deed would trump every other deed. Most people around me are very kind. I think one of the secrets of doing well is the unstated kindness of people with whom I'm associated.

EB: Thank you. Can you please tell us about a project you enjoyed working on and what was one takeaway from it?

Chairman Sir: Recently one of the projects which I enjoyed very much was the one when the lockdown was declared in March 2020. What struck me was what will happen to the climate because all the cars are off. So what will it do to pollution? And so, from April 2020 and up to October, November 2020, I used my phone and took down readings of the pollution level. What was the wind direction? What was the temperature? What was the rainfall and so on? And I did it on my own from April, as I said, to October. And then earlier RK Puram had done a study on this, they had used the meteorological data. So this thing was given to them and they updated their work, based on this data. And what is striking me again is that if you go back to, say, even 2020, and you pick up five or ten days in July and you compare, let's say air pollution after two years, it's much less these days. You are staying somewhere around 100-105, not going beyond 130. But two years back, it was not as good as that.

EB: Sir, according to you, what would an ideal world look like?

Chairman Sir: You would probably look back on a single day in school when you were totally bored. So that would be the ideal day (laughs).

EB: Sir, What is one school tradition from your childhood that you would like to bring back?

Chairman Sir: In our school, we had a very unique tradition. There was a semicircular race platform, a bit like a pavilion, where you had the playing field. The school used to assemble on the pavilion steps. One of the senior masters would come and sit on the platform facing the boys. Once in a while he narrated a story. If it was a music teacher, he played something on the violin, This had to be done exactly as the sun went down. As dusk fell, we were required to observe about five to seven minutes of silence, irrespective of what went on in our minds. That had a calming effect after a hectic day because in a boarding school, you would start at six in the morning with physical training, and you ended at six in the evening with games. After a bath, you assembled in the pavilion. It would be great to have that back in present schools.

EB: Sir, what is the one thing that you would say has been constant in DPS RKP even after 50 years?

Chairman Sir: R. K. Puram started evolving a culture of its own when it branched out from Mathura Road. Mr. Lugani who set up RKP was the Vice Principal at Mathura Road. He was a protege of Mr. Deen Dayal, who was the Principal at Mathura Road. The student community at R. K. Puram was drawn from a cohesive parent community, and I think that still remains the case.

EB: Sir, as DPS RK Puram turns 50 this year, what is your message for the students?

Chairman Sir: The message, as I see it, is for RK Puram to not lose its evolutionary impulse and its pride in history. We also have to think about what we can become.

Rapid Fire

EB: Sir, what was your favorite subject in school?

Chairman Sir: History.

EB: What's the perfect birthday gift for you?

Chairman Sir: I don't need anything.

EB: Sir, could you name a fictional character you most relate to?

Chairman Sir: Can I be pompous? There was a Roman Emperor called Diocletian.

EB: Sir, what's your favorite movie?

Chairman Sir: Blood Diamond.

EB: Sir, if you could have an unlimited supply of one thing, what would it be?

Chairman Sir: Fresh air

EB: Could you name one thing that never leaves your desk sir?

Chairman Sir: My iPhone.

EB: Sir, who do you prefer? James Bond or Sherlock Holmes?

Chairman Sir: Sherlock Holmes.

EB: Sir, what's the title of the book you're currently reading?

Chairman Sir: Japan 1941.

EB: What is one foreign language, sir, that you would like to learn?

Chairman Sir: Probably Latin.

EB: Sir, what would you title your autobiography?

Chairman Sir: Lies (laughs)

Vice- Chairman

Our future is something your techniques and experiences define,
With the essence of your blessings and love we shine.
To always work in alliance, you remind us;
Qualities like empathy, confidence and honesty refine us.
You have taught us to live life in elation,
Even the smaller things in life are our education.

You encourage us to aim for the sky,
So that one day among the stars we can fly.
Your stories of passion and mentorship are ours to read;
From you, everyday, we learn to lead.

An Interview with Ms. Padma Srinivasan

Principal

The Delhi Public School Society & D.P.S. R.K. Puram Managing Committee

EB: When did you decide that you wanted to become a teacher?

Principal ma'am: As soon as I finished college though the desire was always there.

EB: Ma'am, if you could go back in time to visit any historical period, what time would you go back to and what would you do there?

Principal ma'am: Every historical period has its own glamour and distinct lifestyle. But one really wonders, having lived in the present day, whether one will be able to cope up with living in any other historical period. We are spoiled for many things. In hindsight, I don't think one would prefer to live in any other historical period. We have come too far, become too free, too technology-dependent, too reliant on the comforts of modern life, which we didn't have in the past. We have learnt to control the environment to a large extent, for good or bad. We also have considerable control over our lives. That's why I think the time period that we are living in is the best.

EB: Ma'am, what are your views on interdisciplinary learning?

Principal ma'am: I think interdisciplinary learning is a concept that is emerging in India now. Our school also subscribes to it as far as possible within the given constraints. It is an excellent idea. I seriously feel that interdisciplinary learning must be there. Take carbon dating for example: When you analyse a fossil, you are required to have knowledge of chemistry, biology and history to make sense of your findings. History is well connected with other disciplines, especially archaeology and anthropology.

EB: Ma'am, what is that special moment in your life that you would like to relive?

Principal ma'am: The 50th year celebrations! Till the time it was going on, we all wanted it to finish fast as there was so much stress because so many activities were involved in it. But the moment it was over, everyone wanted to relive that moment.

EB: Ma'am, which historical period or event do you enjoy teaching the most and why?

Principal ma'am: I like teaching my subject in all its aspects. So it's not any one particular period of history that interests me. I have specialised in modern India and the history of China, Japan, and bits and pieces of Europe. But I feel that every time period has its own charm. Every time period is extremely interesting and relevant at some stage or the other. Most of the controversies of the present days seem to be rooted in the past. So, every time period has its own charm.

EB: Ma'am, what is the one major challenge that you managed to overcome as a principal and in retrospect learned a lot from?

Principal ma'am: Every day is a learning experience. Everything that we do here, every case is a new case and every human being has different kinds of issues and problems. Dealing with it is a learning experience. Every day we try to improve the way that we function by learning from everything which is happening on a day to day basis. Every interaction with a child or a teacher or a parent is a learning experience.

EB: Ma'am, what is your fondest memory as a faculty member at DPS RKP

Principal Ma'am: Interaction with all children is interesting. When you go to the class and the children are expected to meet you, and interact in something, I looked forward.

EB: ma'am, what is the one thing you wish people would remember you for?

Principal Ma'am: For making a subject such as history very interesting. When you meet a lot of people who teach the same subject, I find that they do not make the subject interesting. Yes, it needs a lot of reading, a lot of understanding. So the way you teach or the way you make them understand becomes totally different. It becomes an experience rather than only concentrating on rote learning for which this subject is generally known.

EB: Ma'am, if you could change one thing in how history is taught or studied, what would it be?

Principal Ma'am: I seriously feel that reading texts and making the children read the texts on their own is very important. Once you do that, class based discussions on what happened then and comparing it to the present - what is happening around you - the comparative study of the events is very important. Constant interaction between past and the present makes a person understand history as a subject much better.

EB: Thank you ma'am. Ma'am what are your views on India moving beyond cricket via a via sports achievements?

Principal Ma'am: Cricket is an obsession with people. It has a tremendous snob value. Other team events and other individual sports need to be encouraged. Of course, now we are winning more and more medals in all the world games, including our own homegrown celebrities. So it's a welcome change and I hope everybody will value other sports as well.

EB: Ma'am, how do you think the learning's from ancient mythological texts are relevant for students today?

Principal Ma'am: The mythologies, be it Indian or Western mythologies, have some kind of a social or a moral message, which of course might have been relevant to that particular time period. But when you look at it closely then many of these things are relevant today as well. When you talk about mythologies, there are many important takeaways from them. You understand the social and cultural conditions that existed at that time from the mythologies.

EB: Thank you ma'am. Ma'am on the occasion of the 50th year anniversary, what is your vision for the next 50 years?

Principal Ma'am: First we have to keep in tune with the Generation Y and Z. The education and the school systems have to keep pace with these generations. Generation Y and Z seem to consider technology more important than humans but we have to keep human interaction in the field of education intact. It has to be balanced. Technology has to be there with the value of human intervention, particularly in the field of education because education is nurturing of a child to grow with the right values, ethics, morals, habits and behaviour. We have to strike a balance in being conservative and progressive.

EB: Ma'am, what is the best compliment you've ever received?

Principal Ma'am: Recently the script of my speech was misplaced during the 50th year celebrations. On the first day there was no light on the podium to help me read. So I rendered my speech without the help of the script. I was well prepared on the second day. I switched on the torch in my phone, but the script was missing! So again, I had to resort to an impromptu speech! As I walked down feeling relaxed, Mrs. Shayama Chona, the former Principal of Delhi Public School RK Puram told me, 'A long speech, but extempore! Very nice.' This came as a wonderful compliment.

Rapid Fire

EB: Ma'am, Which lesser known Indian city would you recommend everyone to visit?

Principal Ma'am: Indore. Lovely eats over there in the evening.

EB: How would you describe DPS RKP in one word?

Principal Ma'am: The best.

EB: Ma'am, What according to you is mankind's greatest quality?

Principal Ma'am: Empathy.

EB: Ma'am, what are three things that you are grateful for?

Principal Ma'am: have a sound mind, sound body and a caring family.

EB: Ma'am Which cuisine do you prefer? Italian or Chinese?

Principal Ma'am : Italian.

EB: Ma'am, which monument stands out more to you? The Gateway of India or the India Gate?

Principal Ma'am: Gateway of India. It is more elegant.

EB: Ma'am, what do you prefer, plays or movies?

Principal Ma'am: Plays.

EB: Ma'am, If you could have one superpower, what would you do? Change the future or change the past?

Principal Ma'am: What superpower? I don't think any of them are really worth it. They're all hegemonic powers which dominate the rest of the world. One rule for themselves and one rule for the others.

EB: Thank you ma'am. Lastly, what is one hobby you would never give up?

Principal Ma'am: Visiting places.

Ms. Padma Srinivasan, Principal

To the ships and lotuses floating in the cerulean
ocean of life,
You are the guiding light, the moon of a vast night
You are the anchor and you are the sail
You are what we look up to when all else fails
Your words adorned with such passion and sincerity;
Their resonance brims with felicity
And to us fortunate listeners it is a reminder of integrity.
You, ma'am, are the epitome of grace and simplicity.

In the best of times, in the worst of times,
Your words, colored rainbow white,
Ring true and serene like a church bell chime
And when all is said and done and we leave these sanct confines

All you said will stay with us, we know
Like the memory of dahlias and daisies on crystal snow.

Ms. Usha Diptivilasa, Headmistress

Greetings to all Readers

'Education and happiness are intimately related. An aim of education, therefore, should be happiness and good education should contribute significantly to personal and collective happiness.'

The abundance of joy, the jolly cacophony of voices, the radiant smiles on the faces and the eagerness in the children to get back to school after an unprecedented holiday, adequately validate the above quote. For Delhi Public School, East of Kailash, happiness is seeing a smile on the children's faces as they learn.

Learning entwined with joyful experiences is permanent. Furthermore, the school unlocks the wealth of myriad talents hidden in every child. Here, there is a free flow of joy, fun, play and games. The nourishment of the mind and body and the confidence the children develop through school experiences is invaluable in shaping their personality. The pedagogy is an eclectic mix of multifarious activities, projects, and classroom transactions in a free and safe space for the children where they feel comfortable, engaged and motivated to learn. Nurturing a child in social, emotional and cognitive skills is a challenge and has evolved into a passionate culture in the school.

The proof of the pudding is in its eating. Presented here, is a glimpse of the potpourri of talents and activities discovered in the children, albeit budding. The piquancy of this bouquet is sure to warm many a heart.

THE LION AND THE MOUSE
 In the story lion and the mouse I like the character of a lion as he is strong and powerful and also the king of the jungle. While the mouse is curious and alert. This story tells us that an act of kindness is never wasted. In the story the lion spares the mouse when he captures her after knowing that mouse will repay him back. Later when lion is caught in hunters trap she helps him to set him free.

प्रदूषण की रोकथाम

- ▶ सभी को इस प्रकृति के प्रति अपनी जिम्मेदारियाँ को समझना होगा तब जाकर प्रदूषण की इस विशाल संकट से खुद को बचा पाएंगे।
- ▶ वातावरण को प्रदूषण मुक्त करने के लिए हमें कोशिश करनी चाहिए।
- ▶ हमें पेड़-पौधे अधिक मात्रा में लगाने चाहिए।
- ▶ जिन कारणों से प्रदूषण होता है, उस पर रोकथाम होनी चाहिए।

DIALOGUE BETWEEN AN AUTHOR AND HIS CHARACTER

INDEPENDENCE DAY-PARAGRAPH WRITING

Journey of Independence @75

The struggle for independence is known and heard by each and every Indian. I want to start by evaluating each and every freedom fighter who fought for us and gave us the peaceful and free life we are living now. The journey from 1947 to 2021, the journey from Shri Jawaharlal Nehru to Shri Narendra Modi is magnificent. Where Indians were left homeless foodless to Indians getting easy home for shelter and food reaching most of the Indian mouths we are getting better, stronger and braver. From the war of independence to the war of Kargil to the present war of corona, we have and will always stay together and fight like a tiger. Looking at the economic front, the rural areas have developed most of the villages have electricity the literacy rate is increasing day by day. TOH BAAD RAHA HAI INDIA, CHALO HUM BHU MANAYE AZADI KA AMRIT MAHOTSAV MODI JI KA SANG.

Topic Clean India Green India Date _____

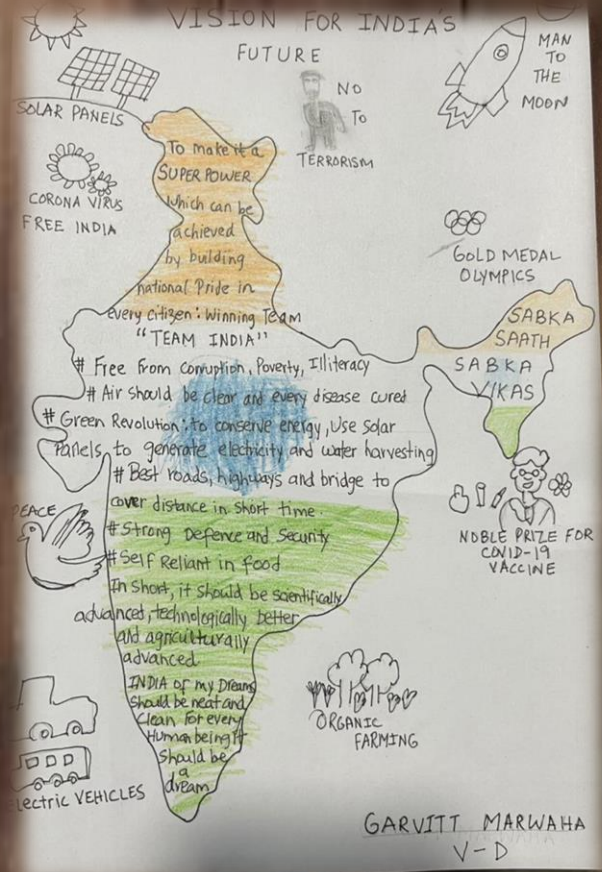

Clean India and Green India are dependent on each other. We have to clean India by reducing all kinds of pollution like air pollution, water pollution and noise pollution. We should also clean India by stopping the usage of non-recyclable plastic, instead we should use cloth bags and do composting of food waste. All this will clean India. Planting more trees and protecting animals will result in Green India. That is the future. Our prime minister of India Shri Narendra Singh Modi has launched 'Swachh Bharat Abhiyan' on October 2, 2014 -

Topic _____ Date _____

195th birth anniversary of Mahatma Gandhi. The purpose of this campaign is to clean the towns and villages of India. Mahatma Gandhi had a dream to make a clean country, so he gave an excellent message to the nation by providing education to keep the people around him clean and said "Sanitation is much more important than Independence."

The Unstoppable Three

1. Introduction

Once upon a time there lived three friends with a dog. They lived in Stowntown city. They were close neighbors. Their names were Rocky, Anne and Khushi. They called themselves “The Unstoppable Three”. They had a beagle named Nicholas who they called Nick. Nick belongs to Rocky but he was equally loved by both the girls. Anne always carries some marbles with her. She also has sharp hearing. Khushi is a cheerful child. Nick can sniff anything which is far off. If there is a bone lying 10 meters away, he can smell it.

2. The sleepover

Rocky wanted to have a sleepover with his friends so he asked his parents if he could invite his friends over. They gave him permission. So next morning he told his friends about the exciting sleepover. In the evening, his friends came to his home. When Nick saw everybody at home, he got quite excited and started jumping around the children. Anne got some books to read at night and some games too. Khushi got some snacks for them. Rocky's mother ordered pizza and burger for them and gave a bone to Nick to chew on. They watched a movie while eating. After that, they played the games that Anne and Khushi had got. A few hours later, they started yawning so they decided to sleep. By that time, Nick was also very tired. They decided to have a sleepover in the kids' living room. Nick slept with one ear raised. In the night, Nick heard someone coughing on the road and Anne heard it too. She and Nick looked out of the window. They saw a man standing at her main gate. She got suspicious. She woke the others up. They all woke up at once and peeked out of their window. They too saw the shadow of a man in Anne's garden.

The moon is up,
The stars are up,
Let's sleep right now and then get up.

Let's stop playing,
Let's start praying.
It's the time of night,
Let's sleep tonight.

It's the time of night,
Let's say goodnight.

NIGHT TIME

- BY AHELI DEY

The Greedy Boy & The Kind Mango Tree

Once there lived a greedy boy named Jackson. He liked throwing rocks on trees. There was a mango tree in his garden which had the best mangoes. One day Jackson decided to throw a rock on it. When he threw the rock on the tree, a ripe mango fell on the ground. Jackson was confused.

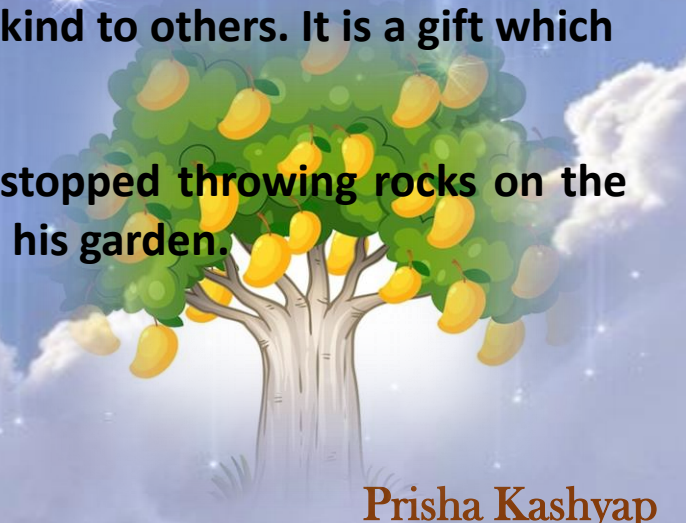

He said to his grandfather, "Grandpa, I hurt the mango tree with a rock but why did it give me a mango? It must also hurt me." Grandfather replied, "My little boy, you were greedy to have the mango so you hurt the tree with a rock, but the tree was kind and it gave you a mango."

He held the boy's hand and said, "Jackson, be kind to others. It is a gift which we should share with others."

After 3 months: Jackson was a new boy. He stopped throwing rocks on the trees and started taking care of all the trees in his garden.

Moral of The Story •

Be kind to others. It will give you satisfaction.

Good Habits

I care about my health,
Because health is my wealth.
I sleep on time,
I get up on time.
I brush my teeth twice a day,
So that they don't turn grey.
I eat healthy food with lots of veggies,
To keep my body free from maladies.

I stay active throughout the day,
To keep lethargy at bay.
I bathe everyday,
To scare the germs away.
I don't put nail polish a lot,
So that my nails do not rot.
I care about my health,
Because health is my wealth.

The Police

After listening to this, they immediately called the police to question the postman. When the police came, they took them to the postman who was locked up in the garage. The police questioned him. He said, "I was looking for a house which was unlocked so that I can rob it. Before I could do so, these children found me and here I am locked up in their garage". All of them were surprised to hear this. The police told this to the government and the government arranged a new postman for Stowntown city. After that day, The Unstoppable Three were ready for any adventure.

The Mysterious Man

They quickly made a plan. The plan was that they will surround the man and when they see the man approaching, Anne will drop her marbles so that the man falls down. Then they will put a cloth on him and grab him. They quietly slipped out of the house and found a place to hide from where they could see the man clearly. When they saw the man approaching, Anne got ready to unleash all her marbles. When he came she threw them right in front of him. When the man fell down, they caught him in the cloth they were carrying. They took him into their garage and took off the cloth. The moment they took it off, they saw that the man was their postman. They couldn't imagine that he would do such a thing. He was so merry and kind with everyone. They decided to lock him in the garage and asked Nick to see that he does not escape. The sun was nearly up so they decided to read some story books till their parents got up. After a while their parents also got up. They told them everything that had happened last night
